

HOUSE AND SENATE HEALTH COMMITTEE MEMBERSHIP TRACKER

UPDATED NOVEMBER 20, 2024

BACKGROUND

Election Day 2024 has come and gone. Republicans have achieved a trifecta - control of the White House, Senate and the House of Representatives.

All congressional elections result in changes to committee membership. In the Senate, the incoming Republican majority will gain leadership of committees and will be adding members to committee rosters. While Senate Democrats will lose some committee seats, they will still have the opportunity to add new members to certain committees (i.e., the Finance Committee) whose current rosters include a large number of departing members. In the House, committees remain in Republican control, and membership ratios will remain largely the same.

The charts below highlight the impending vacancies across the four key healthcare committees – the Senate Finance Committee, the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee, the House Energy and Commerce Committee, and the House Ways and Means Committee – as well as the House and Senate Veteran Affairs (VA) Committees.

Of the four healthcare committees, we are only expecting changes in the top leadership of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, due to the retirement of outgoing Chair Cathy McMorris Rodgers (R-WA). On the Senate VA Committee there will be leadership changes on the Democratic side with Senator Tester (D-MT) losing his re-election race.

As we move into the 119th Congress, we will update this document as committee leadership is determined and as committee rosters are filled out.

*Of note, the Michelle Steel (R-CA) race is still not yet called. This document will update once the results of that race are determined.
